CENTRAL VALLEY HARVEST TRAILS 2025

From our fields to your table,
a guide to direct market commodities

Harvest Trails is published as an annual supplement to the Stanislaus Farm News, and is sponsored by the Stanislaus County Farm Bureau.

Additional copies of this publication can be obtained at no charge at the Stanislaus County Farm Bureau office as well as at many of the listed grower's establishments.

Special thanks to everyone on staff who has helped make the 2025 Harvest Trails a success. Their efforts, combined with the forward thinking of the Stanislaus County Farm Bureau Board of Directors has resulted in getting Harvest Trails out to a much wider audience. Its readership now reaches Tuolumne, Merced and San Joaquin counties.

Your comments and ideas are welcome and will be carefully considered. If you are a grower and are interested in being a part of Harvest Trails, please call the SCFB office at (209) 522-7278.

Welcome

The Central Valley Harvest Trails is a Stanislaus County Farm Bureau tradition, serving as a directory of the locally grown produce available to consumers. In these times of imported fruits & vegetables and mass urbanization, it is vital that Central Valley growers make local, quality produce available at unbeatable prices.

We've contacted growers from all over the Central Valley and asked them to make their products known to you in this publication. Growers were happy to list the fresh, homegrown products available at their stands, markets and shops. Armed with that information and the locations and hours of these growers and vendors, you have everything you need for a fun and casual day trip around our beautiful Central Valley and foothills.

It's easy to get caught up in the fast pace of our lives but it's important to spend a little time with the simpler pleasures and our beautiful region is full of them! Harvest Trails is your tool to do just that, your ticket back to a time where people worked hard for a living and family and friends were all that mattered. So head out on the Central Valley Harvest Trails and visit the families who grow your food!

The Oakdale Morning Market was created to provide a venue for farmers and other small business owners to offer their products directly to the community but we also had a bigger vision.

We wanted to create a time and place for our community to come together, to meet old friends and make new ones. We envisioned people gathering and hoped they would linger. We are thrilled that The Market has become just that.

Something is always “in season” in Modesto — that’s right, all 12 months. Located at the heart of the Central Valley, the endless rolling hills of farmland and orchards are the first indication that farm stand culture is strong here. The roadside wonders display full rainbows of sweet, juicy, and crisp produce, ripe and ready to eat. The Central Valley provides 30% of the country’s vegetables and nearly 75% of the fruit and nuts, but Modesto’s farm stands and local shops provide the freshest selection available! Plan your own adventure below and make sure to leave some room in your trunk to take your bounty with you to enjoy at home!
